

Book-keeping and Accounts Examination (BAE) - December 2008

English Paper

Yu Yat Chung, Kelvin

Mr. Yu is a Form 5 student at the La Salle College.

Thoughts from Mr. Yu:

The key to success is always perseverance and diligence. This may sound like a cliché, but it is never easy.

Sometimes, one might wonder how some of the best minds on earth like Stephen Hawking and Albert Einstein formulated such great and wonderful theories governing everything, or how some of the great musicians like Beethoven or Chopin were able to compose immortal pieces that are praised by many. How did they achieve so much?

Perseverance and diligence might be the answer. However, in the study of accounting, I discovered something more: that is the pursuit of excellence. It is a driving force that keeps you moving forward and never stops. It is the force that pushes you to seek continuous improvements and to focus on correcting even the finest flaw, and it is what you need in order to be successful.
