

The accounting and business management case competition 2012-13

Presentation skills workshop

Six finalist teams from each of the secondary school group and tertiary institute group of the accounting and business management case competition took part in a presentation skills workshop held on 9 April 2013. These finalist teams need to present their recommendations of their business proposal in front of the judging panel. The detailed explanation and practical examples provided by Matthew Kwan, principal consultant of Adams Company Limited helped students to prepare for the final round of oral presentation of the case competition.
