

Book-keeping and Accounts Examination (BAE) June 2008

Ma Man Hin

Mr. Ma is a Form 7 student at La Salle College.

Thoughts from Mr. Ma:

Being a respectful accountant has been my goal since I started studying accounting. Yet achieving this goal is not easy! Striking a balance between leisure and academic work is of vital importance, and having an appropriate amount of relaxation should never be ignored. I believe only with a better physical health can you develop a stronger mind. Therefore, physical exercise is an indispensable part of my daily routine.

Most teens overlook the value of self-discipline and time management and they tend to do whatever they like without any serious planning ahead. Yet these traits serve the basis of one's success. You will stay away from distractions which could be hurdles for your development; and you will regain your concentration, which is the keystone for your accomplishments.
