Thoughts from Miss Chan:

We should set a higher target for ourselves when taking examinations. It is also important to be persistent in overcoming all difficulties and strive towards our career goal. In addition to working hard, thinking thoroughly before answering and understanding the questions' requirements are the keys to success.

Here are some tips for you:

1. Other than concentrating on special topics or narrowing down the study scope, I suggest that you should also spend time on topics with which you are familiar as an assurance of getting marks.
2. Be aware of the level of competence required for the topic. You should determine whether a basic understanding or comprehensive and applicable knowledge is expected for the examination.

Finally, I would like to take this chance to express my thanks to the lecturer at Kaplan, Mr. Alvin Wan, who has shared a lot of valuable examination techniques and knowledge with us.
