 - C The Companies Ordinance
 - D The Hong Kong Financial Reporting Standards
3. Anna is an AAT working in the Treasury and Finance Department of a listed company as a supervisor. As part of her work, she has just sighted a report prepared by her manager. She knows that the report contains price-sensitive findings which are likely to stimulate an increase of her company's share price as soon as it is released to the market. Anna's father is heavily in debt and has recently asked Anna to help.
- What should Anna do under the HKIAAT Code of Ethics?
- A Tell her father to buy the company's shares without disclosing any details of the report findings.
 - B Tell her father about the report findings and let him make his own choice.
 - C Do nothing and keep the report findings confidential.
 - D Buy the shares herself hoping to gain from the share price increase and help her father.
4. Taking the case of Anna in Question 3 above, assume that Anna accidentally leaked the price-sensitive information to her father. What is the most appropriate course of immediate action for Anna under the HKIAAT Code of Ethics?
- A Report the incident to the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited.
 - B Report the incident to the Hong Kong Securities and Futures Commission.
 - C Consult with the HKIAAT.
 - D Consult with her manager and report to the charge of governance of the employer.

5. The Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants, adopted by the HKIAAT, was issued in 2005 by:

6. Can business reconcile with ethics?

- A Yes, always.
- B No, never.
- C Yes, but it only happens when the business is a charity.
- D Yes, but it is a balancing act.

7. Peter is an AAT working in the Audit Department of a firm of Certified Public Accountants as a senior officer. Peter has just started planning for the audit of QQ Limited's 2012 financial statements, and Peter expects to start the fieldwork in mid-April 2013. QQ Limited's Senior Accounting Manager approaches Peter today with a job offer as an accounting supervisor starting from 1 June 2013 (by then the audit will be completed). Peter is seriously considering the job offer because the offer is attractive and the work appears interesting.

What should Peter do under the HKIAAT Code of Ethics?

- A Consult with his audit manager and suggest modifying the audit plan so as to establish appropriate safeguards to the identified threats.
- B Report the identified threats to his audit manager and audit partner, and re-assure them about his loyalty to the CPA firm during the audit.
- C Decline the job offer from QQ Limited.
- D Do nothing because QQ Limited's appointment will start after the completion of the 2012 audit.

8. Taking the case of Peter in Question 7 above, assume that Peter has decided to accept the job offer from QQ Limited. Peter has been assigned to carry out the audit procedures on trade receivables of QQ Limited's 2012 financial statements. QQ Limited's Senior Accounting Manager has asked Peter not to look into one particular trade receivable balance, which is material, because of some sensitive relationships with that customer.

What is the most appropriate course of immediate action for Peter under the HKIAAT Code of Ethics?

- A Report the incident to the HKIAAT.
- B Turn down the request of QQ Limited's Senior Accounting Manager and briefly explain to him/her about the purpose and procedures in auditing.
- C Decline the job offer from QQ Limited.
- D Follow the request of QQ Limited's Senior Accounting Manager and explain to his audit manager about the sensitive customer relationship and the priority of client's interest.
